

University of South Florida

Good Morning Scott!

I just wanted to write you a note to tell you again what a phenomenal lecture you offered my students last week. I was so pleased with the outcome. Your content and style were congruent with the learning objectives I had for the students.

Your consistent message about the power of one's mental capacity, when used close to its potential, for life changing behaviors was one that will benefit social workers. Any opportunity I have to expose my students to persons, who exhibit strengths, self-awareness about them and the ability to use them fully is a "teaching moment". You offered that to my classroom.

With gratitude for giving to your Tampa Bay community in this manner, I remain.

Sincerely,
